Information to guardians regarding teaching in Dibbers primary schools

As for teaching in our operations today, based on high absenteeism

We will arrange teaching for students who stay home because of concerns about serious complications for the student or for a relative. Student will be able to follow teaching by doing work at home and they will be supported by their teachers.

It will be carried out in different ways at our schools, you get information about how your school will work through Infomentor. For the students who are in school, teaching is provided as usual. As a parent, you are an important person to support your child in home-schooling.

Possible compensation for missed teaching time

The school has a responsibility to provide students with the education they are entitled to and, as far as possible, give students in different situations the opportunity to meet the knowledge requirements. Based on the current situation in society, we may offer teaching during the summer holidays, on Saturdays and Sundays or alternatively add more teaching hours during the next academic year.

Decisions about it will be made later in the spring when we know how this has affected us and our students. For those students who are currently in grade 9, one of the first two alternatives applies when the teachers do not have sufficient data to make assessments or when students need more time and support.

Possible closure of school

If for some reason, for example, that we have too high absenteeism of teachers or following the decision of an infection prevention physician, and need to close a school, the government has opened an increased flexibility in how teaching can be conducted. If it becomes relevant to close one of our schools, we can offer distance education. All our schools have a plan for how to do it. Distance learning will take place via the internet in different ways. The new regulation on distance education can only be used in closing.
